"One genticman who seemed to have thought it all over ascribed his escape to his [Dr. L. R. Dickinson's] having been a Mason of high standing."

So writes Tem Evans to his paper the Reidsville Times. So far from being "a Mason of high standing," he was not a Maon at all. Now give your authority.

The Rhode Island Supreme Court, in Aldrich es. Jackson (5 R. I. Reply.—The egg is an accepted symbol of the Resurrection. It was used long before Christianity to represent both the creation and deluge, as life and order came out of these, and out of the ark which inclosed to as the shell does the life to be quickened within it. The transfer of the symbol to the new life that comes out of the grave is very natural. These eggs were colored red or crimson to represent the blood poured out for man's redemption, through which alone, as the believers held, the new life was promised.—Journal of Commerce.

Morgan.

[From the Burlington Hawkeye.]

"Batuvia, tay friends," said the fat passenger. "is the home of the late lamented Mr. Morgan. Mr. Morgan in his day was a goat-rider of considerable celebrity. But he went back on the coat. went back on the goat. Here is the of-See of the Advocate, one of the weekly papers of Batavia. In this print-shop, in the days of the Advocate's ancestor, Mr. Morgan printed a book, and told all about the a nabits, the deceitful tricks, and the bad had nabits, the deceifful tricks, and the bad wats of the goat. He gave the fredicksome animal of the lodge away bad. He described be amusements; he told how he did it, and what he called it. He just told all about it, and liverally took the goat by the horns, which, Mr. Morgan averred, were not the only kind of horns taken in the lodge.

The dejected animal brooded over his wrongs. He felt that Mr. Morgan's offence was rank. It couldn't have been much ranker than the goat; but the goat didn't ranker than the goat; but the goat didn't think of that. He only thought of revenge. He had his revenge. One summer night the goat backed out of his closet, got out of a window in the lodge-room, and slid noise-lessly down the lightning-rod (we can see the same lightning-rod a few blocks further on). That very night the doomed and recreant brother Morgan was out taking a scalk in the starlight. The great exposer a walk in the starlight. The great exposer strared carclessly down one street and au-other, his hands clasped behind his back, and his bead bent in thought. As he walked, with an uneven gait, his back swayed to and fro with what an ordinary goat might con-aid ruchallenging gesture. He did not look around, and so he did not see a terrible figure that followed him—a gloomy, threatening, fearful shape—a part of the night, but not of it. Now and then, as it came close to Mr. Morgan, it would raise itself up in the air with its head bent down, as though in mockery of its victim's attitude, and for a brief second it would retain this attitude, tooking in the gloom like a shadowy letter 8 with legs. Then it would let down, and panse to est a circus-poster; and having inshed this frugal lunch, it would hasten on after the doomed Morgan.

By-and-by the traiter stood on the bridge over the Towanda. He folded his arms, crossed his legs, and leaned easily upon the crossed his legs, and leaned easily upon the parapet. At that instant the goat ran up to abort range, unlimbered, and went into battery, action rear. He straightened himself up like a lightning-rod, then he curved himself into an interrogation point, then he shot himself out straight horizontally and came down in one time and two motions.

He butted Mr. Morgan. He only butted him once; but once was all the bill called for. It was an immense success. The dears weren't open ten minutes before the house was crowded; standing room all gane, and the last man that came in had to leave his cane outside. The goat's neck crocked like a torpedo with the concursion, and it is on the records of the lodge that he were a porous-plaster on his back for the mext two weeks. Nothing like it had ever happened in his family since his great grandfather hired himself out to Augustus Casar for a Roman catapult.

As for Mr. Morgan, he was amazed and paleed and disappointed. Disappointed because he could not die right away and be desse with it. He was at a loss to know just what had happened, and was surprised that an once ise felt the shock of the earthquake. When he landed against the side of a mountain, about four miles the other side of the crock, he began to realize the terrible truth. He was seized with an intense, suckning fear of sil-goats, and no wonder. The next day, when he was standing at the manutelplece, cating his dinner, he had the hapd on his heart, which had been hapded ear up into the back of his next. Mr. Morgan has no one its goat—especially feel. Mr. Morgan ascens to have been a man who didn't have any too much errard for the sanctity of an oath, but direumsiances sasisted him in seeping his vow. He started to escape from the presence of gouts the next day.

Maturally, when he hid himself from the presence of gouts the next day.

Maturally, when he hid himself from the conditions of the beadstrong and errantic goet, he disappeared from the cycs of men. He couldn't help it. Wherever be found men. there were goals. If he slept in the stable, the goat was there, breathing sweet perfeme from his cashinere locks. He found them on the dreary mountain-side, fattening on the dried moss of centuries. If he went to the crowded cities the goat, while he solemnly chewed hits of twine and tomato-can labels, looked at Mr. Morgae cannot be solved. This is a mistake.

It has been stated over and over again in our cotumns that the solving of the puzzle presented, by the combination 14, 13, 15 is say; also that when two numbers are misplaced, one of them being 15 in the combination 13, 15, 14, and the other a corresponding number, the same is the case; but that me one can solve the puzzle if all but the hast three numbers are correctly placed, and these read 13, 15, 14. Now try it.

"One gentleman who seemed to have thought it all over ascribed his escape to his [Dr. L. R. Dickinson's] having been a Mason of bigh standing." Expected Masons are bim up; that they run him through a straw-cuiter; that they bought his boy a tin horn; that they told his wife his gun wasn't loaded, and then buried him at a lonely spot in the dark forest, where two cross-roads meet, with an ash stake driven through his heart. Many are the wild and unreal stories told of his disappearance, but — "

BLOOD AND SKIN REMEDIES

GREAT SUFFERING FROM SKIN DISEAS FOR SIXTEEN YEARS-A WONDER-

FUL CURE.

Mesars. Weeks & Potter:

Gentlemen.—Cuticura Remedies have done me a power of good. I have been afflicted with skin disease for sixteen years. Some days it troubled me more than others, but at night the fiching nearly drove me wild. I would scratch until the blood would run dewn my limbs. I have had several physicians. Some said they could cure me, but others said not. I will say that before I used the Cuticura Remedies I was in a fearful state, and had given up all hope of eyer having any rebet. But, like a drowning man grasting at a straw, I thought I would try the Cuticura Remedies, about which I had read so much. They have performed a wooderful cure for me, and of my own free will and accord I recommend them. Yours, truly.

TRUSTEES' SALE OF TWO VERY VALUABLE JAMES-RIVER FARMS AT AUCTION.—By virtue of a deed of trust to the undersigned from Rebecca C. Dillard and Whilam Dillard, trustee, bearing date on the 20th day of December, 1876, and of record in the clerk's office of the County Court of Surry county, we will sell at auction, at the office of Grubbs & Williams, real estate agents and auctioneers. No. 4 north Eleventh stree, in the city of Richmond, Va., on TUESDAY, April 13, 1880, as 12 o'clock M, TWO VALUABLE FARMS in Surry county, on James river.
Tract No. 1, known as PiPSCO, lying on both sides of Swank Point road, containing SIX HUNDRED AND TWENTY-ONE AND THREEFOURTHS ACRES; 212% acres open land; the balance in oak and pline wood. The DWELLING, which is two miles from Dillard's wharf, is a fine
one; contains seven large rooms, with wide halls and airy passages below and above states. It is two stories. There are white marble mantels in the parlors. It is covered with tin, and is in good repair. The out-bul dings are more than ample for the place, and are in 100d repair. The open lands are highly improved, and abound in maril of very fine quality. There is a quality of cord-woof, and much flue timber for ship building and other purposes.

Also, Tract No. 2, known as DILLARD's WHARF TRACT, containing FOUR HUNDRED AND FIFTEEN AND A HALF ACRES; 103% acres open land; balance oak and pine and some meadow land. These lands are also of fine quality.
Diliard's wharf is also on this property. It is almost new, and cost nearly $3,000. There is a storage-house on the dock 12 by 14 feet, and the dock is 33 by 100 feet. Nearly half the produce raised in surry county is shipped from this wharf, and it pays a handsome income. There is a new storehome, 18 by 32 feet, just built for post office and other purpose. The James-River steamers stop at this wharf every day, Game of every kind abounds, and it could be made one of the best fisheries on the riv
